

Privacy Overview

St Dympna's P&F respects the privacy of our website users and contributors, and consider the responsible use of personal information to be of vital importance. We will not knowingly share any personal data with any third party other than our service providers. St Dympna's P&F is committed to ensuring that to the best of our ability we meet all the requirements of the National Privacy Principles and the Privacy Act. To ensure our Privacy Policy remains current, St Dympna's P&F periodically reviews its Privacy Policy and reserves the right, at its discretion, to modify or remove portions of this policy at any time.

We may use in a general sense, personal information collected from you to create marketing insight, to identify consumer demand & to improve our services – without any reference to your name. Personal information such as name, address and email will only be collected when knowingly and voluntarily submitted. We will not sell or otherwise share personally identifying information with other people except for those purposes as described above or unless required by law. However, there are times when information will be collected, such as when you use our contact form, for billing purposes, when you interact with us via social media or provide feedback to us or to receive information from us.

Your Information

St Dympna's P&F does not sell or rent your personal information to any third party. Your personal information will only be used for the purpose of fulfilling your orders and the provision of our services. In the future, St Dympna's P&F. may use personal information collected from you in order to provide you with electronic newsletters and other forms of communication. Should you wish to remove your details from our mailing list – simply click 'unsubscribe' at the bottom of our email and your request will be activated as soon as possible. No attempt will be made to identify users or their browsing activities except in the unlikely event of an investigation, where a law enforcement agency may exercise a warrant to inspect server logs. The statistics and log files may be preserved indefinitely and used at any time and in any way necessary to prevent security breaches and to ensure the integrity of the information supplied by St Dympna's P&F. When you use our website, your IP address (a number that is unique to the computer through which you are connected to the internet) is logged to track a user's session while the user remains anonymous. We analyse this data for certain trends and statistics, such as which parts of our site users are visiting and how long they spend there. In general, we do not link your IP address to anything personally identifiable to you.

Security

St Dympna's P&F strives to ensure the security, integrity and privacy of personal information submitted to our site, and periodically updates its security measures considering current technologies. You need to be aware of inherent risks associated with the transmission of information via the Internet. St Dympna's P&F cannot guarantee or warrant the security of any personal information you submit to our site. If you have concerns in this regard, The St Dympna's P&F has other ways of obtaining and providing information. Normal mail and telephone facilities are available. St Dympna's P&F Fair website may in time contain advertisements and links to other websites operated by third parties. These links are meant for your convenience only. We are not responsible for the privacy policies of these third party materials. Visitors to those sites should refer to their separate privacy policies and practices before disclosing personal information.
